THE LAZY GIRL'S WAY

A good girl who was sent away by her stepmother returned home with many riches because she was helpful and hardworking.

The old woman who had a bad and lazy daughter was very envious, she didn't know what to do out of anger. The old woman's daughter said to her: "Forget it, mother, all the riches of the earth are not finished. I'll go out into the world and bring you more."

She set off angrily, thundering and smacking, walking along the same road where the old man's daughter had been, she met the sickly, thin dog, the pear tree full of caterpillars, the dirty well and the oven that was ready to go to waste. When they asked her to take care of them, she would answer them angrily and mockingly. "Well, of course! I won't get my hands dirty! What am I? Maid?"

She came to the Mother of the Forest too, but she acted rudely and stupidly: she burned the Mother of the Forest's children, so that they screamed and ran mad with burning and pain. Then she smoked and burned the food. As payment, she chose the newest and the most beautiful chest.

Then she left without saying goodbye, for fear that the Mother of the Forest would change her mind and take her chest. By the time she got to the oven, the fire burned her and she couldn't have any pies. At the well the water dried in a moment and the girl left thirsty. Reaching the pear, which was full of ripe pears, the girl had no chance to taste any, for the pear grew a thousand times taller than it was, so that its branches reached into the clouds. When she met the puppy and wanted to take the gold necklace, the puppy bit her.

She arrived at her mother's house. "Look, mother, what a nice big chest I brought you. From now on we'll live like in a fairy tale." The old woman's daughter opened the chest. A lot of beasts came out of the chest that ate the old woman and her daughter. The old man stayed quietly at home. And he had many riches. His daughter married a good and hardworking man and they lived happily ever after.
