STRANGE FISH

Once there was a bald boy, named Keloglan (Kelolan). He was called as “Bald son, cute son” by his old, poor mother. Keloglan and his mother were very poor. They were living in a very small house which had only one room. They didn’t have enough money to buy food and they had hard days. One day Keloglan went fishing to catch some fish. “I can catch a few fish for me and my mother and we will be full up this evening”, he thought. So he started walking toward the river near his house. On the edge of the river he threw his fishing-rod to the water, soon he caught a very big fish. But it was not like any other fish. Its eyes were as brilliant as the stars, and its scales were as bright as silver, it was a very beautiful fish. Keloglan has never seen a fish like that before. “Wow! What a beautiful fish!” said Keloglan. While Keloglan was looking at the fish, his stomach started growling. “Well, no matter how beautiful you are, still I am hungry and I have to take some food home. So, my mom and I will have a great dinner tonight” thought Keloglan. “My mom will be really happy to see the fish” shouted Keloglan happily.
