Snack roll

Both end of a kitchen roll or toiler roll are taped with paper circles.
 The roll is punched in a few places and filled with treats.

Treat ball

A toilet paper roll is cut into strips approx. 2 cm wide. Four of the strips are threaded together to create a flat ball. Treats can be added through one of the openings.

Fumble box

The toilet rolls are placed in a box, e.g. a shoebox, with the opening facing upwards. As many rolls are inserted until the box is full so that they fit tightly and cannot be pulled out. Treats are placed in the rolls.
